Shirley's first

RadioTimes

Just two weeks before she appears in the Royal Variety Performance, our cover star Shirley Bassey starts her first-ever series for BBC television this evening (8.15 BBC1) singing some of her most famous songs and some new ones. On page 12 David Robson writes about the girl who's come a very long way from Tiger Bay.

● A new adventure for Dr Who (6.5 BBC1) – and this time he's on his own, dashing off to Gallifrey to foil an attempt to assassinate the President of the Time Lords, and leaving Sarah Jane behind.

● Choreographer John Cranko died in 1973 aged only 45, but with many notable achievements to his credit. The Lively Arts – In Performance (10.15 pm BBC2) presents two of these tonight when the Stuttgart Ballet, which he founded, dance Onegin, which he created for them.

● Wagner's theatre at Bayreuth is 100 years old. The controversial centenary production of The Ring will be broadcast on Radio 3 starting on 28 November, and as a prelude Geoffrey Skelton gives three talks about How Wagner Wrote and Produced The Ring starting tonight (9.25 Radio 3).
